

Leader Calls Top Business Leaders To Solve Tax Stalemate

Opponents Of Excise Tax
Are Invited

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16 (AP)—Gov. Leader today turned toward the top business leaders of Pennsylvania in a new approach to solving the year-long tax stalemate.

He called upon "a representative group" of business executives, all officials of leading firms, to confer with him Monday at the Executive Mansion.

Important Meeting

"I attach supreme importance to this meeting," the governor said. "I certainly would not have invited men of this caliber to come if I did not feel this way."

No list of those invited was released by the governor. But within hours of the official announcement two company executives disclosed they had turned down the bid.

H. W. Prentiss Jr., chairman of the Armstrong Cork Co. of Lancaster, wired the governor that he regretted a long standing previous engagement in New York City made it impossible for him to be on hand.

Henderson Supple, president of Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia also notified the governor that he would be unable to attend. Supple was expected to send an alternate to the luncheon session but an Armstrong Cork Co. spokesman said Prentiss had designated no substitute because the invitation was issued to him personally.

Others Invited

Others receiving invitations included Ben Morrell, board chairman of Jones & Laughlin, Pittsburgh; Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Co.; Pete Elkins of Westinghouse; Joseph N. Pew, head of Sun Oil interests, and J. M. Symes, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The governor's press secretary confirmed that Pew and Symes were among those invited. Both head companies represented in Harrisburg by lobbyists Democrats singled out as being responsible for the defeat of Leader's manufacturers' excise tax.

No business firm spoke up in favor of the manufacturers' excise tax at the public hearing Dec. 1 held by the Senate Finance Committee. Most of the opponents to the bill were representatives of big business interests.

At last one Republican senator held the door open for possible revival of the excise tax. Sen. Diehm (R-Lancaster) said he may ask for a reconsideration of the bill in order to transform it into a retail sales tax.

"We shouldn't let that bill die," he said. "We ought to hold it for something like a sales tax if the governor doesn't do anything about taxes."

Five Days To Act

Diehm and the 25 other Republicans who killed the tax bill Wednesday have five legislative days in which to call for a second vote on the proposal. The Legislature is due to meet Monday and Tuesday before recessing until Jan. 16 for the holidays and state farm show.

In another development House Speaker Andrews (D-Cambria) challenged Republicans to put up half of their 97 votes in the House to show "good faith" for any sales tax bill.

"We are not the sale tax party," he said. "The Republicans would have to produce more than 50 percent of the votes as far as I'm concerned."

Two Republican-sponsored sales tax bills are being held by the Democratic-controlled House Ways and Means Committee. Republicans need nine or 10 Democratic votes to pass a bill.

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP)—Gladys Small, 15, hovered between life and death today, the victim of a love-crazed youth who killed three members of her family.

John Failone, 17, went berserk Wednesday night and cut down with rifle fire Gladys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Small, and an uncle, William Small. He shot the girl in the chest.

Police said Howard Merritt Pierson surrendered quietly.

NATO Ministers Charge Russian Moves Provocative

ALL-OUT FOR THE BLOOD BANK — that was the story at Tobyhanna Signal Depot yesterday. Depot employees donated a record-making 512 pints to the Bloodmobile unit during its stop; another 40 registered but were rejected. In photo here, left to right, are Miss L. A. Scovitch, registered nurse from Wilkes-Barre; Joseph Urban, same address; Henry Blokus, Dallas and Thomas Johnson, Kingston, all four a part of the regular staff charged with the responsibility of procession and collecting the blood.

Signal Depot Again Wipes Out Blood Quota Deficit

TOBYHANNA SIGNAL Depot employees donated 512 pints of blood to the Red Cross Bloodmobile unit yesterday.

It was the largest number of pints ever given on a single day in Monroe County history. The total set a record both in the number of donors and in the number of persons who showed up to give their blood.

Although only 512 pints were given, actually 552 employees registered at the mobile unit set up on the depot grounds. Doctors were forced to reject 40 of the prospective donors due to colds, virus and other minor illnesses which prevent donation of blood.

Second "Save" For the second time in the past year the depot could take credit for wiping out a badly-sinking deficit in blood contributions from Monroe County residents.

During recent visits to this county, residents have failed to meet the 125-pint monthly quota set for the area. Earlier this year Depot employees put the county's blood donor drive back on its feet by contributing dozens of pints more blood than was needed to clear away a deficit.

For yesterday's visit, the Depot had been asked to give 380 pints. This total would have cleared away the Monroe deficit with the Blood Bank in Wilkes-Barre. Instead of simply trying for the 380 pints needed, Depot workers and officials who were in charge of the drive there carried on an intensive campaign to over-subscribe and over-donate the quota set for them.

They succeeded. When the final tally was made, Depot employees had given 132 pints more than was actually needed to put Monroe's blood program back in the black again.

Angster Leads Off With Col. Robert Angster, depot commanding officer, leading the way, the crowd of donors began pouring in to the mobile unit as soon as it opened in the morning. Throughout the entire visit, the waiting room was filled — or overflowing — with employees, all of them waiting to give.

A small army of volunteer workers — nurses, technicians, doctors and depot employees who pitched in to do the dozens of necessary jobs which go with holding the Bloodmobile station down — kept at work from early morning until late last night.

Red Cross officials said it was one of the most inspiring and remarkably thorough jobs they had ever seen in the blood donor program locally.

LeRoy Mikels, blood donor chairman for Monroe County, said last night: "The Depot should certainly be commended for their action in bringing the chapter up to its quota."

Reds In Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan, Dec. 16 (AP)—Russia's traveling salesmen, Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, sat down around the bargaining table today with apparently receptive Afghan leaders.

Wounded Deer Hunter In Hospital

NEWFOUNDLAND—A Philadelphia hunter who was shot on the first day of buck season, Nov. 28, died Thursday in Hahnemann Hospital, Scranton.

He was Gerald Lewis, 27, of 7138 Dungan Road, Philadelphia. Lewis was injured in a hunting accident on the Gustav Ostrom farm near Panther, Pike County.

An autopsy performed Thursday night showed that Lewis had suffered multiple fractures of the spine and a perforated abdominal cavity. State police and Pike County officials listed Lewis' death as accidental.

Lewis was hunting with two friends—Ray Briddle of Southampton and Tom Coquette of Horsham. Coquette is his brother-in-law. He was taken from the woods on a tractor operated by Mrs. Margaret Uhl, a farm wife who lives near the Ostrom farm.

At the highway an ambulance was waiting to rush Lewis to the hospital. His condition at the hospital had been listed as "very serious" since his admission.

His death is the only hunting fatality recorded in this area during the buck and doe hunting seasons.

Yugoslavia Loses In U. N. Compromise

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP)—A proposed compromise deal to settle the deadlock over a Security Council seat collapsed tonight at a stormy session of the U. N. Assembly.

The Assembly refused to give Yugoslavia enough votes to elect it to the nonpermanent seat on the Council held by Turkey.

The deal announced by Assembly President Jose Maza of Chile called for Yugoslavia to resign after one year and for the Assembly next year to elect the Philippines.

Yugoslavia polled 34 votes, six short of the two-thirds vote of those present and taking part in the balloting. The Philippines, which withdrew under the deal, got 19 votes.

Spain received two votes, and Bulgaria, Italy, Sweden and Yemen one each.

Maza announced that in view of the voting he released both Yugoslavia and the Philippines from the agreement which had been worked out in frenzied conferences during the day.

Wars Of Control

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (AP)—The president of the American Bar Assn. called attention today to what he called the dangers of federal control of education.

Middle East, Asian Acts Create Threat

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP)—Ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance declared tonight recent Russian moves have created a new challenge to the free world.

They say this challenge comes from Soviet activities in the Middle East and Asia, which they called provocative, coupled with an increase in Russian military power.

A communique ending a two-day meeting of the foreign, defense and finance ministers of the 15 NATO nations echoed in this respect a warning from U.S. Secretary of State Dulles yesterday that the cold war is on again in earnest.

Roll Back Soviet

The communique reaffirmed determination of the members to roll back the Russians from German territory by peaceful means and reunity the country under the Bonn Federal Republic.

Such a reunification of Germany is essential to a just and lasting peace, it said.

In an evident reply to the recent new pressure on the isolated Western sectors of Berlin, the ministers declared the security and welfare of the former German capital is vital to the peace of the world. With this, all members of the Alliance pledged their support to the three Western occupation powers in resisting any attempt by the East German regime to oust them from Berlin.

The entire NATO ministerial council lauded the manner in which Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay had presented the Western case at the recent Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Geneva.

German Reunification

The ministers condemned Russia's refusal to negotiate on Western proposals for Germany's reunification through free elections, coupled with worldwide disarmament and greater East-West trade.

Much of the communique was drafted this afternoon by Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. The other ministers then spent about two hours rephrasing it before final approval, but a NATO official said most of the Spaak-Von Brentano language was retained.

Summing up the two-day session, the council officially announced it had approved the military targets for NATO members in 1956, and their tentative buildup goals for 1957 and 1958.

It said all member governments are determined to see NATO's forces equipped with the most modern weapons, an obvious reference to the nuclear age arms which NATO planners have adopted as the basis for their new look strategy.

The ministers approved plans for a joint radar early warning screen across Europe and a communications network to back up this screen.

More Snow Forecast For 30 Days

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Glancing ahead for 30 days, the Weather Bureau said today much of the country should expect below normal temperatures and more than the usual amount of snow or rain.

"The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for mid-December 1955 to mid-January 1956 calls for temperatures to average above normal in the southwest and near normal along the Gulf Coast and in northern New England," the report said. "In the remainder of the country below normal temperatures are expected with the coldest weather in the Northern Plains."

"Greater than normal amounts of snow are indicated in the northern third of the nation from the Great Lakes westward to the Pacific Coast. Rainfall is expected to be above normal along the West Coast and below normal in the East. Subnormal precipitation is indicated in the southern half of the country except near normal in the Tennessee Valley and along the Gulf Coast."

Turncoat-Tennessee Back Anxious To Explain His Defection To "Comms"

AIDEN, Minn., Dec. 16 (AP)—Richard Tenneson returned today to a country home rich in spirit of God and Christmas, to explain "my side" of his defection to the Communists.

The 22-year-old farm boy, who earlier had declared himself an atheist, nodded silently before a cake fashioned in the form of an open Bible—the gift of church women.

It bore quotations from scripture counseling the former soldier, who shunned repatriation after the Korean War, to place his faith in God.

It was his expressed hostility to religion that disturbed his mother more than any side of young Tenneson's obviously confused state of mind.

Mrs. Portia Howe, whose unremitting efforts to persuade the youth to return were climaxed this morning when he stepped off a plane in Minneapolis, nurtured the hope he would come back to God.

Anxious To Explain Looking frail in the oversized suit he has worn since he crossed into Hong Kong, appeared anxious to explain his actions to townspeople here and to the rest of the country.

"I know I have some explaining to do," Tenneson said in the living room of the family farm home. "I just don't know how to approach it. I want people to understand my side of the story. But I don't know what their feelings are now and I don't know how they'll react."

In Aiden, a community of some 700 residents who have lived intimately with the Tenneson story for two years, the youth's arrival at noon today from the Twin Cities surprisingly left little impact.

A large percentage expressed a willingness to "give Tenneson another chance." A few said they would not consider him welcome.

Tenneson told newsmen he did not believe himself guilty of any traitorous act in renouncing this country to live for two years with the Chinese Communists.

But he sidestepped answering why he had chosen to stay with the Communists and what prompted his return. Similarly, he refused comment on his earlier statement that the United States employed germ warfare in Korea.

Senator Given Welcome To Race By Adlai

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Lanky Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee got into the Democratic presidential nomination race today with the announced intention of combating Adlai E. Stevenson in one state primary—and probably several.

Stevenson welcomed Kefauver's entry into the race, saying: "Come on in. The water's fine."

The 52-year-old Tennessee senator, making his announcement at a crowded news conference, said he has assurances from party leaders that "I will have a fair shake for the nomination."

Kefauver said he will enter the June 5 California primary. Stevenson, first to enter the nomination race this year, has the backing of most California party organization leaders.

In Los Angeles, Chairman Tom Carroll of the Kefauver for President Clubs of California, predicted the senator again would win control of the California delegation as he did in 1952.

Led On Two Ballots

Kefauver, who led on two convention ballots three years ago only to see the nomination go to Stevenson, said he will campaign vigorously.

Stevenson issued his "come on in" comment in Chicago. He also said he was glad to hear that Kefauver had stated he wanted to increase the unity and strength of the Democratic party.

"Certainly we shall need unity and strength next November for the important contest," Stevenson said.

Kefauver said that time and money—he remarked that he didn't have too much of either to spare—would determine what primaries in addition to California he might enter.

In this connection, he said he will decide "very soon" whether to contest Stevenson in the May 29 Florida primary. At Miami, Frank Katzenine, a Kefauver backer, said the senator would be entered.

Syria Asks Israel Ouster

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP)—Syria demanded today that Israel be thrown out of the United Nations.

Syrian delegate Ahmed Shukairy also urged the U. N. Security Council to use economic penalties in punishing Israel for an attack on Syria last Sunday northeast of the Sea of Galilee.

He cited Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser's warning to the U. N. last night that Egypt considered that attack an attack on her too and would meet force with force. Shukairy said the issue was "war or no war."

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban replied to Nasser's threat. "If Israel is attacked, it will defend itself with every ounce of its strength," he warned all Arab countries. "Leave us alone."

The 11-nation Council was meeting to consider Syria's complaint at the attack. The complaint said the land-air operation resulted in the capture of four Syrian observation posts and the deaths of 49 Syrians.

Even before hearing from Syria and Israel, 10 of the Council members deplored the attack on the basis of preliminary information.

They were Turkey, the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France, Iran, Nationalist China, Peru, Belgium and New Zealand. Only Brazil remained to be heard from at a later meeting.

Compromise Might Solve Controversy Over Roadside Advertising Billboards

At a recent meeting of the Pennsylvania Roadside Council with some members of Gov. Leader's cabinet, representatives of that organization asked for stricter state control of roadside billboards while at the same time voicing criticism of the commonwealth's highway safety boards.

The council seeks passage of an act restraining both governmental and commercial signs by the zoning of areas near roadside signs, as well as the Pennsylvania Turnpike, the Blue Star Memorial Highway, and limited access highways.

Undoubtedly this extremely controversial question will continue to provide heated arguments from both sides, with the advertising fraternity insisting upon its right to place the big boards where they wish and those who decry the appearance and potential safety effect of such signs being equally insistent upon their removal.

Certainly it would appear that the idea of zoning certain areas for the boards has a lot to recommend it.

In the earlier days of the turnpike, for example, there had been tacit agreement that no billboards were to go up, even immediately outside the fence which lines the highway its entire length, but as the years pass we have seen more and more signs being placed.

From the standpoint of those who advertise, the boards are justified, but from the point of view of those who would like to see certain major highways unmarked by commercial advertising, they constitute a defacement of scenic beauty.

Perhaps there can be a give-and-take agreement whereby the boards are restricted to the immediate vicinity of the interchanges, where the advertising would be of maximum effect for hotels, motels, restaurants and similar commercial enterprises.

Pennsylvania State Police Anniversary Recalls Brilliant Record Made By Unit

Thursday was the birthday of the Pennsylvania State Police, and a proud anniversary it was for that fine organization whose exceptional history in its fifty years of existence is famed far and wide.

In fact, the Pennsylvania State Police may well look back with no little satisfaction on the fact that it was the initial such organization in the United States from which countless other state forces took their cue.

There have been only a few commanders of the State Police, but they have been men of strength and integrity who left their imprint on the organization.

From the earliest days, when men from the mounted branches of the United States Army enlisted to form the original troops, there has never been a time when the armed forces have not been represented in the rolls and not a few of them, both officers and men, have achieved notable combat records in several wars.

Many books and countless newspaper and magazine articles have been written about the outfit whose half a century of service to the commonwealth was observed Thursday, but none of them has managed to convey fully the power for good demonstrated by the troopers through their long years of service.

The days when the patrols were made on horseback or on motorcycles are gone, but both of these "vehicles" are still used at the training school in Hershey to develop the athletic prowess of the men now constituting the force.

We congratulate the Pennsylvania State Police for its splendid record and wish for it another proud half century of progress in the never-ending war on crime within our state borders.

George Sokolsky Says...

Immigration Part Of Our National Survival As Free People, Not Part Of Foreign Policy

Immigration has been, throughout our history, precisely what is meant by the word, the migration of individuals to the United States from other countries. When we needed people to populate our country, immigration was encouraged. That is how the ancestors of all of us came here from somewhere in Europe, Asia, or Africa.

Now along comes Senator Clifford Case of New Jersey with a new theory. He said: "We no longer are able to think of our immigration policies as an isolated question of internal concern alone. What we do is watched by the world. It is still another arm of our foreign policy."

Let us analyze what this means. According to Senator Case's notion, the needs and welfare of the United States have ceased to be important. What we Americans believe to be true about the United States does not matter but what Krishna Menon, who bedevils us, thinks is of paramount importance. Shall we admit a million or two Hindus to the United States just to prove to Nehru that we do not suffer from race prejudice as Dr. Ambedkar does in South Africa? Or, shall we admit a million Italians every year because Italy is overcrowded and needs to get rid of part of its population?

Senator Case has obviously not thought out the ultimate consequences of his statement. Immigration cannot possibly be an arm of our foreign policy because it is essentially domestic—a question of the size and nature of our population, the need for workers in agriculture or industry. True, Italy would like to export tailors or chefs to improve our appearance and our digestion, but do we need more tailors and chefs?

What do we require to improve the productivity of our population? At present, shortages are in unexpected areas. We are short of engineers, chemists, mathematicians, policemen, teachers. From what countries are we to import such persons? The Russians, with rare foresight, got hold of engineers and scientists, immediately after World War II, principally from Germany. They did remarkably well by themselves with these highly-trained, experienced Germans whom we rejected because they had been Nazis or were associated with Nazis.

We let some of the best minds in Europe fall into the hands of our enemies when we might have found them useful to us. I should imagine that Senator Case and such will view this with horror and alarm, but it is not worse for us that the Russians have been able to develop the H-Bomb, the Schorkel submarine, the guided missile, because of these German scientists? The country needs brains; we can supply our own machinery. The proof that we need trained brains is obvious in the fact that we have such a shortage of engineers; there is no shortage of politicians.

No law is immutable in the United States. We are neither Persians nor Medes. It is obvious that some day the McCarran-Walter Act will be revised, amended, rewritten as every law is, from time to time. For years, labor leaders and A.D.A.'s have demanded the amendment or even repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act but whenever they have controlled Congress, as, for instance, its most recent session, they have avoided the subject.

If Senator Case wishes to establish his sincerity, why does he not bring in a revision of the McCarran-Walter Act? Senators Ives and Saltonstall and Case brought up some kind of measure but it was inadequate and nothing was done about it. What Case urges is that 1950 instead of 1920 be used as a base for the national origins quota. This does not meet our problem. It may get the Senators a few additional votes on Election Day.

But this question of immigration is too important, too complex to be settled either to please emotionally excited groups in this country or the need of politicians to gather batches of votes. It is part of our problem of national survival as a free people. It is part of our problem of maintaining our civilization.

To some, many of them Americans of old lineage, it is not important to save the distinctive American civilization; what does seem important is that we should know-how to every currently neutralist country so that some of them might turn their smirking countenances toward us. It is this conflict of view that may be resolved in the election of 1956.

My America —by Harry Boyd

Human Nature Tries Hard Way First Too Frequently

Who hasn't gazed intently trying to make out the features of the man-in-the-moon's face and seeing only disorganized blobs of shadow? Then suddenly the face takes shape and it's hard to understand how you could have missed it.

Or who hasn't tackled a tricky problem from a frustrated youngster's arithmetic book and, after trying to work it out by algebraic formulas and other highfalutin devices, finally discovered that the answer was simply a matter of common horse sense?

Given a choice between two ways of doing anything, human nature shows a perverse but deeply ingrained tendency to try the hard way first.

I suppose cows have been eating nails, barbed wire, and other foreign bits of metal with their greens since long before the beginning of recorded history. And for years veterinarians have been puncturing cows here and there to remove these irritating bits of scrap iron, which cause what they describe as "traumatic gastritis."

As a veterinarian for a large dairy, one Dr. R. E. Carroll performed more than 200 operations a year to extract assorted hardware swallowed by valuable cows. Then one day an idea hit him and he began prescribing bar magnets.

Get a small magnet into a cow's stomach and you collect your metallic odds and ends into one batch. Then you can remove them all with one incision.

Dr. Carroll tested his technique scientifically. He had 33 heifers swallow magnets and kept another 38 "untreated" animals as controls. In six months 97 percent of the control heifers required operations for removal of iron irritants, but only two (5 percent) of the magnetized critters had to have surgery.

I suppose this is not a matter of very great interest to anybody but the cows, their owners and their doctors. Presumably it may be some time before the medical profession sanctions the internal use of bar magnets by absent-minded sword swallowers and crawling infants with a tendency to get too much miscellaneous hardware in their diets.

But this experience of Dr. Carroll's is another example of a long and continuing series of intellectual break-throughs which I find extremely encouraging.

For a long time in the early days of the race, people must have been driven to distraction by the problem of how to get rid of flies—until one day some smartaleck thought of the simple expedient of hitting them over the head with a swatter. It must have been much the same with most of the other problems that plagued mankind in the past.

We can take comfort from that today when so many of the problems that confront the world seem utterly insoluble. There is historical ground for hoping that someday, all of a sudden, they will appear to us in a new light that reveals solution so simple we'll wonder why we never thought of them before.

A famous reverend in New Zealand was Norman MacLeod who led a pioneering group of 800 Scotsmen to the new land a hundred years ago. He was 70 himself at the time, but possessed of all his vigor and strength. No man for frivolity, he threw any bagpipes on board into the sea the moment he found them. A few were smuggled in despite him.

At the age of 88, Reverend MacLeod caught an unfortunate member of his congregation napping during his sermon. "If ye cannot hear the words of the Lord," he roared, "then ye shall feel them," and he threw the Bible unerringly at the sinner's head.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Administration To Avoid Bill On Natural Gas Rates

Significant Silence — There is one legislative bombshell on which the Administration proposes to keep its hands off — if possible.

It's that pending bill to wipe out federal control of natural gas rates. The hotly controversial measure was passed by the House by a close margin in the last days of the previous session. This victory was primarily due to Speaker Sam Rayburn, Tex., who spearheaded the drive to put it through the House. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex., plans to make the explosive issue the first order of business when his chamber reconvenes January 3.

But as far as the Administration is concerned, it's taking a firmly neutral position on the legislation.

This was disclosed by Arthur S. Fleming, head of the Office of Defense Mobilization, during a private discussion with the House Anti-Trust Investigating Committee.

Representative Peter Rodino (D., N. J.) asked what the Administration is doing about the embattled natural gas bill.

"I would rather not discuss that matter," replied Fleming.

"Why not?" demanded Rodino.

"Last February, the President's Commission on Energy Supplies and Fuel Resources, which you headed, recommended that independent producers selling gas in interstate commerce be excluded from federal regulation. In other words, your report favors the pending bill. What's the Administration doing about that? You're a part of the Administration, and you must know something about this very important matter."

Fleming smiled, but stood pat. "I'm sorry," he said, "but I am not permitted to state the Administration's position on this subject."

"In other words, you've been muzzled," said Rodino. "Can you tell us whether there will be a statement by anyone in the Administration?"

"I don't believe so," replied Fleming. "I think you will find that on this issue Congress will be left to do its own deciding without any advice or suggestions from the Administration."

"In other words," snapped Rodino, "the Administration is taking a powder."

Fleming let it go at that.

Note: The Committee is scanning the activities of an official of one of the Standard Oil companies who held a Pentagon job and, reportedly, drew pay both from the Army and his concern at the same time. He was quickly dropped from the Army payroll when it became known the House probers were checking on the matter.

Note: Admiral Arthur Radford is flying directly to the Far East following the meeting of NATO foreign ministers in Paris this week. The head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff will visit Japan, Korea, Formosa, Thailand and South Vietnam. Enroute he will join Army Secretary Brucker and Navy Secretary Thomas, who are already out there.

The Reason — President Eisenhower has an explanation for those medical reports about his being "fatigued."

He expounded it to House Republican Whip Charles Halleck, Ind., when the latter exclaimed at the President's healthy appearance, when they met at his conference with the bi-partisan leaders of Congress.

"You look just fine to me," enthused Halleck. "Fit and healthy."

"I feel all right, Charley," beamed the President, "but the doctors tell me that I'm fatigued. I told them that's no surprise; that by the time they get through putting all those gadgets on me, that I ought to be fatigued."

Padded Accounts — Expense padding is running into big figures in certain defense contracts.

Eye-popping evidence of this has been uncovered by the House Armed Services Investigating Subcommittee, headed by Representative F. Edward Hebert (D., La.).

He has found $670,000 in travel costs in one contract alone.

These charges, as figured by Hebert, amount to 15 percent of the cost of two planes the concern is manufacturing for the Air Force. He also estimates the huge travel charge is enough to pay for 2,000 commercial air trips across the country.

Staff probers have informed Hebert that these high travel charges and other unusual expenses have been approved by Defense Secretary Wilson.

The latter is due to be questioned about these matters at public hearings by Hebert's Committee when Congress reconvenes next month.

Also under scrutiny is what Wilson has done about the return of $200,000,000 the government advanced to certain aircraft makers to speed up production following the outbreak of the Korean war in 1950. There is no record of this money being repaid, and Wilson will be interrogated about that.

Farm Product Dealers Must Have License

Under a stepped-up program of activity in assuring farmers of payment from dealers who buy their products, the State Department of Agriculture has handled a greatly increased number of complaints in the past 11 months.

Dr. W. L. Henning, State Secretary of Agriculture declared this week.

All such dealers must be licensed by the department, he explained. The most recent case involved a prosecution following a complaint that a poultry dealer purchased a truckload of broilers on a net return basis without having the necessary license issued to him by the State Bureau of Markets.

Out of all the complaints received thus far in 1955 only three required court proceedings, Dr. Henning said. Other complaints were investigated immediately on receipt of information and were settled amicably between the offenders and the Commonwealth. Pending cases said to be in violation of the State produce dealer act involve a potato dealer and a florist.

The State Secretary said there are many produce dealers and commission merchants who are unaware of the fact that Pennsylvania law requires them to have a license if they receive farm products directly from producers within the State. Only those dealers who purchase on a cash basis, with settlement on or before delivery are exempted from the law, he explained.

Licensed dealers are required to maintain accurate records on the disposal of farm products received, he added. Such records are to be held for at least two years and made available for examination by the department in investigating complaints.

"Farm produce" is defined by the act as including all agricultural, horticultural, vegetable, fruit and floricultural products of the soil, also poultry, eggs, nuts, flowers and honey, but does not include timber products, livestock, wool, milk, or milk products. The department may refuse, suspend or revoke any license for just cause. Fees are $5.00 per year. Violators, on conviction, are subject to fines ranging from $50 to $300 for the first offense, and $500 to $1000 for second or subsequent offenses, or one year imprisonment or both, at the discretion of the court.

Editor Horace G. Heller:

The undersigned writer in paying tribute to the life of Alfred L. Snyder, is particularly motivated by the fact that Mr. Snyder was a telling influence for good — for Christian character-building; and for the many things, also, that must be considered as community-building, in its best sense.

Who is he who knew Mr. Snyder, but would not acknowledge that he was an individualist, as one of his friends puts it "of parts."

As general secretary of the YMCA, where many observed his labors and their fruitage, over a decade, there was found in Mr. Snyder one dedicated to constructive character building, that certainly, though strangely, fitted one of his temperaments — in an outreach perhaps seldom noted in one of Mr. Snyder's type.

Type, you say? Well, types are not duplicated, (only in part!) in the entire realm of our humanity.

Before me, on my desk, lies a photo-postal card, which Al, as he was familiarly called, sent out to hosts of friends. A card showing the basketball group of the YMCA, and their associates in early decades of this century — which photo shows the "boys" and their leader, to impressive effect. Al, in that picture, many declare, "looked for all the world, like owner, coach, team-spirit, Victory! — the gamut of the whole sports idea, — in the realm of his enthusiasm."

Such men are builders. The YMCA, next to the church, to and with him, simply had to be, (accent on HAD) an exponent of the full-rounded individual. So believed Al — church man, Christian-fraternity man, community booster, patriot, all in stride. He was very largely his "own-associates" in executive work, of the

"do-your-own-proof-reading" resolve and spirit.

Not a brilliant yet painstaking writer; not an orator, nor town-crier sort of fellow! He held the regard of many big men; his gauge of human nature transcended the run-of-the-mill. Not afraid to run for lodge offices, he "landed" many of them. He aspired to public office, but was never elected — his motive always: TO SERVE. His loyalties were, for the most part, sound. His whole life spelled conscientious service. He took his meals for decades at the same place. Traveling often he had a quirk for visiting graves of illustrious men, Presidents, etc. — musing inscriptions on monuments of Harding, Garfield, McKinley, et al; the memorial tablet, honoring Sumnerfield Staples, (Lincoln's substitute in the Union ranks). Many have viewed the tablet's inscription — its creation hastened by the local press, decades ago.

And thus we might go on telling of Al's worth to his times and continuing generations. Those who knew him best know the history does not end here. Al read his Bible 60 times, thru and thru. Those associated with him in BIBLE CLASS work aver that "the boys would listen to the Book read by the hour, with little disturbance by members of the group."

It is safe to state that hundreds of youth, who came under the discipline and influence of Al Snyder — some are grand-dads with children of their own — are infinitely better folks "because of the example of Al Snyder on their lives" — and may observing generations be heartily inspired by such as he!

This is the wish of one of many who were closely associated with Al in his lives.

Sincerely, CHARLES A. KEIPER.

Organizations, Individuals Play Santa To Flood Hit Homes

Clothing, Toys, Food Distribution

SANTA CLAUS will be making his annual rounds again this year to the homes of hundreds of Monroe County youngsters whose parents suffered huge losses during the August flood.

St. Nick will be making his yearly stop at their homes this Christmas—thanks to a helping hand from countless individuals and organizations.

Elks Plans

Take, for example, the efforts of the 106 Elk lodges throughout Pennsylvania that turned over $7,000 to East Stroudsburg Lodge 319 so that it could buy warm winter clothing for about 450 youngsters between the ages of 5 and 11.

The children have been invited to come to the Elks Home at 260 Washington St. at 1 p.m. tomorrow. At that time, the boys will be outfitted in storm coats and trousers, and the girls will receive coats and dresses. All of the children will also receive a pair of shoes.

Meanwhile, toys by the carload have been coming into Monroe County these days, and will replace those lost by countless youngsters during the flood.

These new and used toys and dolls have come from churches and school groups within Pennsylvania and outside the State. They'll be distributed to about 1,000 twin borough children on Dec. 23-24.

The first toys arrived here in mid-October and were sent by Trinity Methodist Church, Chester, to the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and its pastor, Rev. Roger C. Stinson, former pastor of the Chester congregation.

Toys Arrive

Then toys began coming from Ridgefield, Bound Brook, and Newton, N. J., Dover, Del., the YWCA in Bethlehem, and Methodist and Presbyterian youth groups in different parts of Philadelphia.

Many of these contributions were made after articles depicting local flood losses appeared in periodicals of the American Friends Service, Meanwhile, a group of children from the Germantown Friends School began a collection of toys after they toured the flooded areas of Monroe County.

Contributions also were made by Amish people who donated their labor to help flood victims become rehabilitated.

The large quantity of toys has made distribution a major task requiring the aid of Boy and Girl Scout troops, firemen, civic club members, church groups, servicemen and Legionnaires.

The volunteers have been sorting the toys according to age groups. The toys are then placed into boxes with identifying street names and stored for eventual distribution by members of the Marine Corps Reserves.

Fire Hits York

YORK, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP)—A fire spread by a north wind burned out three stores nine blocks south of Market Square today and caused more than $100,000 damage.

AN ASSIST FOR SANTA. — New, top-quality clothing is being unpacked by members of the youth activities committee of East Stroudsburg Lodge 319, BPOE, and local businessmen, for distribution tomorrow to some 450 children of Monroe County flood victims. From left to right are Fred H. Rhodes, committee chairman; Tom Campbell, manager local J. C. Penney Co. store; John R. Hauser, Russell Imbt, Jr., exalted ruler; Elmer E. Fresh, Whole Blood Given By Donors Help Mountainhome Man To Combat Rare Disease second floor of Monroe County General, a 29-year-old Mountainhome man is being brought back to health by whole, fresh blood in an almost endless series of transfusions.

His name is Chauncey Price. And in Chauncey's case the words "fresh blood" are all-important.

Price is suffering from an uncommon disease known as hemophilia. Reduced to lay terms, the best explanation of the disease would be this: hemophilia is a disease in which the patient bleeds very severely from even the most minor cut because his blood lacks a substance known as anti-hemophilic globulin which makes blood clot normally.

40 Pints
The Mountainhome carpenter was taken to the hospital Friday, Dec. 2. Since then he has been given transfusions totaling more than 40 pints of fresh blood. He is suffering from a bleeding ulcer which causes internal hemorrhage.

In a patient with normal clotting blood, the problem would be less severe; with Price it is a complex problem.

But the battle is being won, hospital sources said yesterday—thanks to the selflessness of numerous donors who have come to the hospital to give blood to Price.

Price's blood type is O-positive. The hospital has had no difficulty in finding donors to give the blood, but there have been some repercussions. The major one is the question: Why doesn't the Red Cross Blood Bank supply the blood needed?

The answer is this, according to hospital authorities: The globulin which causes blood to clot normally, is highly perishable when the blood supply is removed from the human body. Within 24 to 48 hours, often less, it is no longer present in the blood.

Fresh Blood "Must"

For this reason blood transfusions for a hemophilic patient who is bleeding must be made with freshly-drawn blood. The blood supply must be no older than 12 to 24 hours—preferably much less.

Blood which is stored at the Red Cross Blood Bank in Wilkes-Barre cannot possibly be used in such a case since it is several days old by the time it is available for transfusion. Such blood is of no direct value in the treatment of hemophilia.

It is for this reason that the hospital has not—and cannot—use Blood Bank blood supplies in Price's case. The Blood Bank would be perfectly willing to supply the blood in this case, as in all other cases, if the blood could be used, the hospital said.

Because of the questions concerning inability to use blood from the bank, the hospital has attempted to clarify the reasons to all donors and to others who have asked the question.

On another point, hospital officials said, the Red Cross Blood Bank has been extremely helpful in solving one part of its difficulty in treating the case. When Price first came to the hospital, there was an acute shortage of bottles to hold the blood taken from donors.

Police Escort

The hospital issued a call for help from the Blood Bank. Within a couple of hours the center had provided enough bottles to take care of the needed supply. To do this State police were alerted in Monroe and Luzerne Counties. By making a shuttle-ride to county borders, the bottles were delivered rapidly.

In addition to the fresh whole blood, Price has also been getting fresh-frozen plasma. This form of plasma differs from ordinary plasma in that it must be specially prepared. Most of this has come from Children's Hospital in Philadelphia where it is made. The Red Cross also supplied two units it had on hand at the time Price came into the hospital.

Today, thanks to the combined efforts and cooperation of officials and donors on widely-separated levels, Price is approaching good health again, the hospital said.

Walter Objects To Romanian

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Romanian industrialist Nicolai Malaxa was allowed back in the United States again today but faced a hearing to determine whether he may become a permanent resident.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) head of the House Immigration subcommittee, disputed Malaxa's right to stay and expressed confidence the U. S. Immigration Service would turn him out.

Y Division Meets On Membership

DIVISION THREE of the coming YMCA membership campaign, Thomas L. Kistler, leader, met at the Y last night when plans were discussed with Horace G. Walters, a co-chairman. There was a fine attendance and interest was reported keen.

The team captains of the division and members of their teams were present. Captains are: Donald Snyder, John Pennington, Mrs. Clifford Heller and Willard Goddard.

Fran Shum, who prepared material for use during the campaign, explained many of the details which turned into a question and answer period which, it is stated, brought out many facts.

All of the four divisions have now had their organizational meetings. All teams have been formed and will be supplied with material kits with which to meet their prospects.

YMCA memberships have been suggested as acceptable Christmas gifts, not alone for boys and girls, but men and women as well. Any one interested in this project is asked to contact YMCA office, 832

Portland Trade Board Seeks Free Foot Bridge Across Delaware River

PORTLAND — Community Board of Trade, Inc. has inquired into the status of a proposal to erect a foot bridge across the Delaware River between Portland and Columbia.

Lillian MacNamee, secretary, noted that it was announced that a free foot bridge would be erected to replace the world famous covered bridge which was washed away in the flood.

"The members of the Community Board of Trade of Portland are interested and desirous of knowing what has been done or is being done now toward the planning and construction of a foot bridge across the Delaware River," the secretary said.

Free Foot Bridge

"A few days after the flood in August," she continued, "it was published in the papers that a free foot bridge would be erected on the pillars of the old covered bridge."

"Since then, we believe an appropriation has been made for the same," she added.

The secretary reported that before the covered bridge was washed away, some 6,400 pedestrians crossed it in one month.

"At present, it is a great inconvenience for those who work and have to cross daily," she observed, "as they have to walk much further to the approach of the new bridge."

United States Dependence On Maginot Line Theme Blasted By Red Politicians

By William A. Ryan
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE United States faces a grave dilemma in the Middle East, and many regard the problem as the natural result of American over-emphasis on Maginot line thinking.

The United States, such observers argue, for a long time was obsessed with the idea of forming a Middle East Defense Organization embracing the whole area. This not only handed effective propaganda ammunition to the Russians, but it also caused aggravations within the Western camp itself.

Easy For Soviets
It was easy for Soviet propaganda to identify the idea of MEDO with colonialism, with a threat to the sovereignty of nations in an area newly emerging from colonial status. The Russians pictured MEDO as a device to expand Western control of the area's natural resources, chiefly its oil. It also pictured the attempt to build a military alliance as an invitation to war on the soil of the Middle East.

Many in France had serious misgivings about MEDO. These French feared it would undermine the traditionally privileged position of France in Syria and Lebanon. Thus in Syria there grew up an alliance between pro-French elements and Syrian Leftists against American policy in the Middle East. The coalition was so powerful for a time that it held the fate of the government in its hands. The only reason for such power, which was out of proportion to the numerical strength of the coalition, was the apparent need of the pro-French elements for allies to stand off pro-British and pro-American elements. Gains were made in the long run by pro-Soviet elements.

Attacks Hurt
The Israeli attack on Syrian military positions near the Sea of Galilee did little to help the United States out of its dilemma, and it went far to strengthen French sympathies for Syria. The attack may have damaged Israel herself, since it raised fear in London and Washington over prospects, for peace if Israel were to acquire additional arms.

The United States dilemma is the heart of the Middle East problem: How to restore the military balance and yet avoid an arms race that surely would lead to a big "little war."

If the United States met Israeli requests for the sale of arms to offset Egyptian acquisition of Communist weapons, there was no guarantee the Israelis would restrain themselves from launching preventive attacks before the Arabs got too strong. The Galilee attack increased such fears.

But if the United States does not give arms to Israel, there is no guarantee, either, that the Arabs will not attack in concert when they are trained and ready with their new Communist arms.

Easy For Reds
The Soviet Union has no such problem. The arms go to Egypt, the Russians claim, in a purely business deal having nothing to do with politics. The Russians contend this proves they are without sin and the West is the devil. The Arabs, so long as they are on the receiving side of the arms argument, go along with this reasoning. Once again, the lesson is driven home to the West that Maginot lines are no defense against the determined political attack that overleaps them.

Trigger Burke, World War Ranger, Sentenced To Die

By Arthur Everett
NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Elmer Trigger Burke, disgruntled and defiant, today was sentenced to die in Sing Sing's electric chair for the barroom slaying of a pal. The death sentence was mandatory.

Burke, 38-year-old gunman and escape artist, was convicted of first degree murder Dec. 2 for the 1953 shooting of Edward (Pochoy) Walsh, a longshoreman.

"Did I get a fair and just trial?" Burke complained today at his sentencing. "No!"

Twenty-three minutes after his sentence Burke was placed in an armored motorcade bound for Sing Sing. His Christmas will be spent in the death house.

There have been unconfirmed reports in police circles that Burke might save his skin by talking about other New York crimes, especially on the waterfront.

In a rambling 12 minute pre-sentence discourse, Burke claimed he had been offered a chance to plead to second degree murder — and escape the chair — "if I tell on my friends."

Protects Friends
Then the World War II Ranger declared defiantly:

"I am not going to tell on my friends, or anything I know — and I don't say I know anything."

Sentencing Judge John A. Mullen of General Sessions Court set the week of Jan. 23 for Burke's execution. However, the date is meaningless since a death sentence is automatically appealed in New York. A new date will be set some months hence if the appeal fails.

Burke was a local waterfront bully. He claimed he was so drunk the night of the Walsh slaying that he didn't even remember being with Walsh.

After the killing, Burke left town. He next turned up in Boston where he was charged with possessing a Tommy gun believed used in an attack on a suspect in the million-dollar Brink's holdup of 1960.

Burke broke jail in Boston in the summer of 1964 and for a year was the object of a nationwide hunt. FBI agents recaptured him last Aug. 27 in a hideout at Folly Beach, S. C.

Nobel Prize Winner Heads For Jungles

BORDEAUX, France, Dec. 16 (AP)—Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 80-year-old medical missionary and Nobel peace prize winner, embarked today for Africa to return to his jungle hospital.

Smiling and in apparent good health after a four-month European visit, Schweitzer told shipboard newsmen he was very happy to be going back to Lambarene to take up his 40-year fight against leprosy.

"If I should not be back to Africa, I feel that in several days I would feel 10 years older," he said.

Leader Vetoes Law Affecting School Units

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16 (AP)—Gov. Leader today refused to sign a bill passed by the Legislature which would have permitted more than one joint committee to govern a combined school district.

In a veto message the governor declared that in such delegation of functions "there is always the circumstance of overlapping of jurisdiction without a clear line of demarcation on the fringe activities." He said that could only result in confusion and defeat of the object to be attained.

"The fundamental policy of the constitution of Pennsylvania and the public school system is to obtain as much uniformity as is feasible for the government and conduct of the schools to obtain education for the children," he added. He also pointed out that jurisdiction by several committees might prove to be "an opening wedge" to demands for creation of separate committees because of grievances or disagreements.

Other Bills

Other bills signed into law: Authorize the commissioners of Allegheny County to delegate transit and traffic commission duties to the Allegheny County Planning Commission.

Give boroughs 30 days instead of 10 after acceptance of a bid to make full payment for purchases.

Require a majority of residents of each separate area in different townships to sign petitions for incorporation of a borough.

Eliminate the necessity for FHA mortgages and veterans' mortgages to be appraised when funds are invested in fractional interests.

Allow banks to preserve photographic or photostatic reproductions of original records after two years.

Permit the burgess to decide the votes of the borough council.

Youth Center Ball Tonight

THE TWIN-BOROUGH Youth Center will hold its annual "Gala Christmas Dance" tonight at 8:30 at the YMCA building in Stroudsburg.

All young people in Monroe county are cordially invited to attend the dance, according to James Terrill, youth center president. No matter what school the young person may attend, Terrill said, the dance is designed for their entertainment and the "doors are open to all."

A separate dance is planned for seventh and eighth graders in another room at the YMCA building. A small admission will be charged for the dance.

Music will be furnished by Benny Falcone and his "Tune Toppers". Games, television and other entertainment will be available for those who do not care to dance.

General Tire Dockers

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16 (AP)—Reports were prevalent in Pittsburgh today that the General Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, is dickering to purchase the A. M. Byers Co., world's largest manufacturer of wrought iron.

A DOOR, A WINDOW: THE NATIVITY. At Hamilton Township Consolidated School the late morning sun shines starkly through the entranceway, silhouetting these two girls in its bright light. To the right, the sunlight adds its brilliance to the painting of the Madonna and Child done by two students at the school, Carol Ann Holden and Patricia Carraghan. In schools throughout Monroe County it is work such as this—done by the hands of children—which most typifies the meaning of Christmas.

Stock Market Irregularity Turns Higher

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Irregularity was the keynote of today's stock market, but the final trend was higher.

Aircrafts and steels provided most of the strength for the long day. Some oils shot ahead near the close. Motors were backward throughout the session, and the railroads never did vary much.

Political Activity Now No Bar To Service On Boards Of State's Institutions

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16 (AP)—Harry Shapiro, state welfare secretary, today reversed a department policy barring persons engaging in political activity from serving as trustees of state institutions.

He said the move was the result of the new mental health law signed this week by Gov. Leader.

The new law reduces trustees of state mental institutions to an advisory capacity and strips them of administrative duties such as appointing institution superintendents.

"As a result the political activities of the board need not be a bar to appointment," Shapiro said.

His decision was made public in a letter written to Mrs. W.W. Livingston of Robesonia, Pa. In it he asked Mrs. Livingston to reconsider her resignation as a member of the Wernersville State Hospital board.

Relieved of Pressure

Shapiro wrote that under the new law board members will "be relieved from political pressure" through loss of appointive powers.

"On the other hand, it will enable the department to obtain the advice of men and women who have been active in the community and who can be of invaluable assistance in the development of the program and the public relations between the institution and the community," Shapiro wrote.

He said he was "very happy" over the new law because "it gives me the opportunity to invite you to reconsider your resignation... and I will appreciate it very much if you can find it possible to do so."

In recent months Shapiro had installed a policy of eliminating any person active in politics from consideration for appointment to trustee boards.

OPEN HOUSE AT FOSTER'S 'HOME'

Here's desk used by Stephen Foster when he composed.

AS LOVELY AS the song itself is the home which inspired Stephen Foster to write My Old Kentucky Home. Located a mile east of Bardonia, Ky., it receives visitors every day of the year except Christmas. Hostesses wearing hoop-skirted dresses give a hospitable warmth to the beautiful home. They point to the handsome desk (valued at $25,000) where Foster wrote the notes and the piano, with its mother-of-pearl keyboard, where he first played the melody. Elegant furnishings include chandeliers, lush carpets and furniture by Duncan Phyfe and Chippendale. The brick house, a reproduction of Independence Hall, was built in 1796. There's not a nail in the structure. Wooden pegs were used. In the early days, Federal Hill, the estate's formal name, was known for its colorful gardens and magnificent furnishings, but it took Foster to bring it enduring fame. In 1922, it was deeded to the state of Kentucky.

Some of the friendly hostesses wait to greet a visitor on steps of the stately mansion.

Painting shows Foster being touched by magic of music.

SANTA CLAUS RETURNS—Manhattan employees of the New York Telephone company will play Santa again this year—for the 39th time—for kids in 100 charitable institutions and hospitals. Some 7,500 toys — including 3,500 dolls — are being distributed.

Tuition Can't Be Offered In Raffles

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 16 (U.P.)—A half-year's tuition at college is neither merchandise nor tangible personal property and, therefore, can't legally be offered as a prize in a raffle, Atty. Gen. John J. Bracken ruled today.

Recent legislation in Connecticut legalizes raffles under tight restrictions, one of which prohibits the offering of money as a prize.

The senior class at Fairfield University is seeking a permit to conduct a raffle with second semester tuition at the university as a prize.

This led State Police Commissioner John C. Kelly to ask Bracken two questions: Can tuition

Thurmond Would Impeach Supreme Court

FLORENCE, S. C., Dec. 16 (U.P.)—Sen. Thurmond (D-SC), the 1948 States' Rights Democratic candidate for president, says he is ready to vote to impeach every member of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Addressing the pro-segregation Citizens Councils of Florence County last night, Thurmond attacked the court for its ruling that racially segregated public schools are unconstitutional.

A member of the audience, P.M. Norton of Florence, asked Thurmond:

"Is there any place in the Constitution giving the people themselves a way to impeach the Supreme Court?"

"No," Thurmond replied. He explained that only Congress can impeach.

"But," he shouted, "I'm ready tomorrow to vote to impeach every one of them." He asserted that the anti-segregation ruling was not based on law but on "sociological and psychological grounds."

Noting that there are both Democrats and Republicans on the

The idea was to show the difference in reactions of a person who drinks two glasses of beer, one who downs six ounces of bourbon whisky and one who drinks eight ounces. The drinkers were to be tested by a so-called drunkometer.

Some of our saleswomen have jangled themselves into a Merry Christmas mood by attaching silver bells to their garters — but Kathryn Long has an even better idea. She invested 1.00 in an adorable triple-band bracelet from our jewelry department, with a cluster of bells attached. "Wristful dreaming for a bright Christmas . . ." "What are challis night gowns?" a young man of our as-usually sprigged daintily with rosebuds and such. "And for pity sake," we add, "don't shilly shally around if you want to buy one—they're selling faster than hotdogs at a football game." . . . Since I discussed my Madonna collection at the General Hospital Auxiliary

Gap Scouts Set Sights For Big Year

DEL. WATER Gap Scout Master Henry Kulp and his helpers were praised for their splendid work with Scout Troop 92 during the past year, made difficult by flood conditions. The work was reviewed by the Scout Committee at its reorganization meeting in Kulp Scout Hall, Tuesday night when Rev. Luther Markin, Institutional Representative, Francis Drake, chairman, Russell Buzzard, treasurer, Walter Bytogle, Roy Westcott, Victor Hoeft, district committee, Henry and John Kulp and Wm. Townsend were present.

Committee member Elam Gray was absent. Of the two new committee members, Roy Westcott and Charles Duff, Westcott was present and was warmly welcomed to the committee. Rev. Luther Markin presided over the election of officers. All were re-elected making Henry Kulp again Scout Master; John Kulp, Explorer Advisor; Wm. Townsend, Asst. Scout Master; Drake, chairman of the Scout Committee; Russell Buzzard, treasurer; Mr. Markin, inst. Representative.

Review Work

Activities of the past year were reviewed and it was reported that six scouts and explorers had advanced at least one rank. Three boards of review and three courts of honor had been conducted. Ten scouts had at least ten days and nights of camping; a number spent a week at Camp Weygand. Among other activities, conservation work had been done when 1000 seedling trees were planted at the water shed owned by the borough, and paper collections made.

The boys operate under a troop budget plan and from their dues also receive, each, the Boys Life Magazine. Mr. Kulp is registering thirteen boys, three less than last year; but a number will be taken into the scout troop shortly. Those now listed are John and Alan Bytogle, Richard Mannix, Thomas Dittus, William Carlton, David Chamberlain, William Buzzard, Peter VanHorn, Robert Ace, John Grey, Ralph Westcott; also two explorers, Alan Metzgar and Robert Dickson.

Goals for the year 1956 are that each boy shall advance one rank and that by the end of the year 40% will be first class or higher.

Bosman Takes On Three At Chess Session

A NEW feature was introduced on Thursday night at the weekly session of the Stroudsburg Chess Club, when Edward E. Bosman of East Stroudsburg, mathematics instructor of the Barrett township schools, played three men simultaneously. In spite of the fact that his attention was naturally divided among three different types of attack and defense, only one victory was scored up against him.

This was won by Earle Weiss, like Bosman, one of the top bracket players of the club. Messers Vlassek of Mount and Mondelle of East Stroudsburg went down to defeat in this triple play.

Mondelle, however, had ample consolation, defeating William P. Deering in three consecutive games.

Vlassek also, had distinction during the playing scoring a victory over Joseph Kushner the club star.

Kushner, however, was not lacking in victories. He defeated Vlassek in four games and Harold James in two.

Bosman flattened Earl Weiss in a long and well contested session.

Harold James and Vlassek divided honors one and one, and Earl Weiss of Stroudsburg also defeated the mountain member.

Bosman and Weiss had a long, stubborn engagement each taking one game.

Reading Named All-America City

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Reading, Pa., today was one of 11 communities named "All-America cities."

Reading was honored by the National Municipal League and Look magazine, cosponsors of the annual citations.

The Pennsylvania city was honored for fighting "corruption and machine rule to a standstill."

Six courts of honor and six boards of review will be conducted. The troop will attempt to have disaster preparedness plan in operation; and they expect to continue tree planting, also to do a good turn for their sponsoring church by maintenance work on the church grounds.

Maj. Lapiana In Largest War Games

FORT POLK, La.—Major Joseph A. Lapiana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Lapiana, 99 Walnut St., East Stroudsburg, Pa., was assigned to the aggressor force in Exercise Sage Brush, held recently in Louisiana.

Some 110,000 Army troops tested the latest concepts of bacteriological, atomic, chemical and electronic warfare.

The maneuver was the largest joint Army-Navy Force exercise since World War II.

The aggressor force furnished opposition to the regular maneuver troops in simulated battles.

Major Lapiana, administrative officer of the 2d Field Hospital's Headquarters, is regularly stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C. He is a veteran of 13 years of Army service.

The major is a 1951 graduate of Pennsylvania State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg.

Appeal Made For Labor By Fair Group

NEWFOUNDLAND — President Carroll Featherman of the Green-Dreher Fair association has appealed for volunteer labor to complete rigging an association building for moving back to its original site.

The building, a 26x50 foot structure, floated 200 yards north of its foundation during the August 18 flood. It has now been placed on skids and needs only to be braced throughout for the trip back to the association grounds.

Featherman has set Monday at 1 p.m. as the time that the final work will be completed. He has announced that services of tractors for moving the building have been volunteered and they will go into action as soon as the preparations are finished and the ground is frozen hard enough to facilitate towing.

The president also expressed his appreciation to those who have donated labor and equipment on the work accomplished thus far.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Negro Star Running Wild In Point Race

GRAMBLING, La., Dec. 16 (AP)—Rambin' Bob Hopkins keeps collegiate basketball statisticians scurrying because he changes the national record every time he drops in a point for Grambling College.

The 6-9 junior scored 42 points in Grambling's 103-62 victory over Tuskegee (AIA) Institute Tuesday night to bring his collegiate total to 3,104 points. Hopkins established a new bracket for collegiate players last week when he became the first ever to hit the 3,000-point figure.

Grambling is a Negro college of 1,815 students, located in the north central section of the state.

Second Fiddle

Players such as Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest and Frank Selvy of Furman dominated the collegiate scoring scene in the past few years, yet neither approached the almost fantastic total produced by Hopkins.

In 104 college games, Hemric scored 2,587 points for a 24.9 per game average. Selvy hit for 2,583 in 78 games for a 32.5 average.

Hopkins has played in 106 games and shows an average of 29.6 points per game. He's hitting for a lot better than his career average this season since he has 210 points in six games, a 35-point average.

Another comparative unknown, Carl Hartman of Alderson-Broadway, was the NCAA recordholder before Hopkins smashed the standard last week. Hartman had 2,999 points in his four years of competition.

Mays Wins National League Slugging Crown Second Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Who's the most feared batter in the National League? Ted Kluszewski, hard-hitting first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds.

Kluszewski drew 25 intentional walks, the most in the league, Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee was next with 20 and Duke Snider of Brooklyn had 19.

The circuit's slugging title went to Willie Mays of the New York Giants. He wound up with a .639 mark on 382 total bases in 550 at bats. Willie also made off with the slugging crown in 1954.

Runnerup

Snider finished in the runnerup spot behind Mays with a .628 average. Then came Mathews with .601, Ernie Banks of Chicago with .596 and Kluszewski with .585.

Mathews drew the highest overall bases on balls total, 109, while Cincinnati's Wally Post struck out the most times, 102, and Don Mueller of the Giants fanned the fewest times, 18.

Banks shattered two of the 11 major league season records eclipsed in National League play. The Cubs' stalwart hit five home runs with the bases filled and the most home runs, for a shortstop, 44.

The official league averages were released today.
